

Routt County Vision 2030

A series of workshops to define a regional vision plan

Client: Orton Family Foundation

General Location: Steamboat Springs, CO

Routt County, Colorado citizens realized that their unique community, with a small town feel, was something they wanted to maintain and protect. An active group of local citizens came together to prepare an update to their Vision 2030. Over a two-year period, citizens were invited to voice their opinions about what issues and characteristics were important to them in surveys, workshops and small committees. Placeways was invited to assist in preparing for the final series of workshops where citizens were polled on various objective and goal statements for the Vision 2030 plan. For these workshops, the Placeways consultant team created visuals to illustrate the various issues and choices, including demographic charts and maps, historic growth animations and 3D representations of potential future development patterns. The team also assisted in the workshop presentations, which utilized keypad polling for citizen input.
